WRITE YOUR OWN RHYMES

Fill in the blanks to make a short rhyme, following the example from Does a Bulldozer Have a Butt?
Share your hilarious rhymes with a friend or family member!

EXAMPLE:

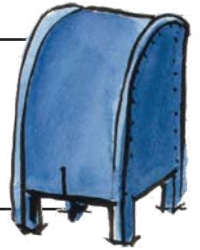

Do bulldozers have butts?
Look, they're powerful and square.
And do Sasquatches have butts?
Sure, they're kind of round and bare.

#1

Does a boot have a butt?

And does a mailbox have a butt?

#2

Does a hat have a butt?

And does a house plant have a butt?

#3

Does a bag have a butt?

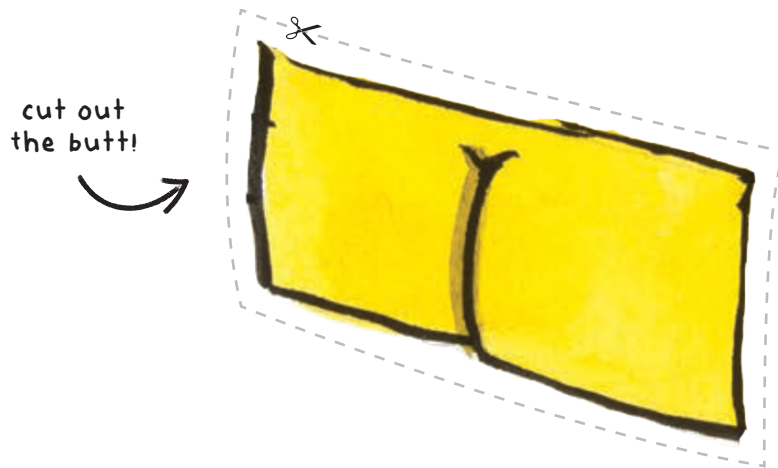

And does a stroller have a butt?

STICK THE BUTT ON THE BULLDOZER

Gather your friends together for a round of STICK THE BUTT ON THE BULLDOZER!

DIRECTIONS:

1. Print out the bulldozer illustration on the following page and cut out the “butt” illustration above.
2. Tape the sheet of paper with the bulldozer illustration to the wall.
3. Secure one or two pieces of scotch tape to the back of the “butt” illustrations (so that it’s ready to be stuck to the bulldozer).
4. Now the fun begins! With the “butt” illustration in hand, close your eyes—spin around a few times if you’d like!—and try your best to place it on the rear end of the bulldozer illustration. The player who gets the closest wins!
